01 Welcome

In order to progress in the use of a language, it is essential to know the level of proficiency. For this reason, TECH has designed this placement test by means of which the students will be able to know their linguistic level in Spanish according to the criteria of the Common Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR). Thus, after completing it, the students will have the option to choose the best path according to their personal objectives, either to certify their level or to enroll in a language program that adapts to their circumstances, such as those offered by this academic institution.

Presentation video

Test yourself and know your level of Spanish in detail thanks to this test that evaluates your competences in this language"

Introduction

Language skills are essential today. At a professional, academic and personal level, being able to communicate in a second language greatly facilitates individual progress, so knowing the exact level at which one masters a language is very valuable.

For this reason, TECH has been in charge of creating this university language placement test through which the student will be able to know at what level they can handle in Spanish. Thus, with this complete test that follows the criteria of the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages, the students will be more confident when preparing their curriculum or participating in selection processes or applying for academic positions, among many other issues.

Thus, after taking this test, the students may decide to certify their level or enroll in language classes to continue improving their Spanish.

It is proven that learning languages increases your Intelligence. Learning a foreign language strengthens the brain's neural networks”

02

Is It Important to Know Your Level in a Language?

Nowadays, it is practically impossible to apply for a job, get an academic position or pass a selection process without verifying a level of proficiency in a non-native language. For this reason it is very important to have the opportunity to know this information in order to place it in the curriculum vitae or to be able to provide it where it is required. As such, TECH offers students the opportunity to precisely determine their level in the common Spanish learning 4 skills: listening comprehension, speaking, writing and reading comprehension.

At the end of the evaluation, the students will receive a detailed report on their language proficiency, so that they can include it in their CV or decide to continue improving their language skills.

Knowing your level of Spanish is essential at a professional level. Take this placement test and decide what's best for your future with the detailed information you'll get"

tech 10 | Is It Important to Know Your Level in a Language?

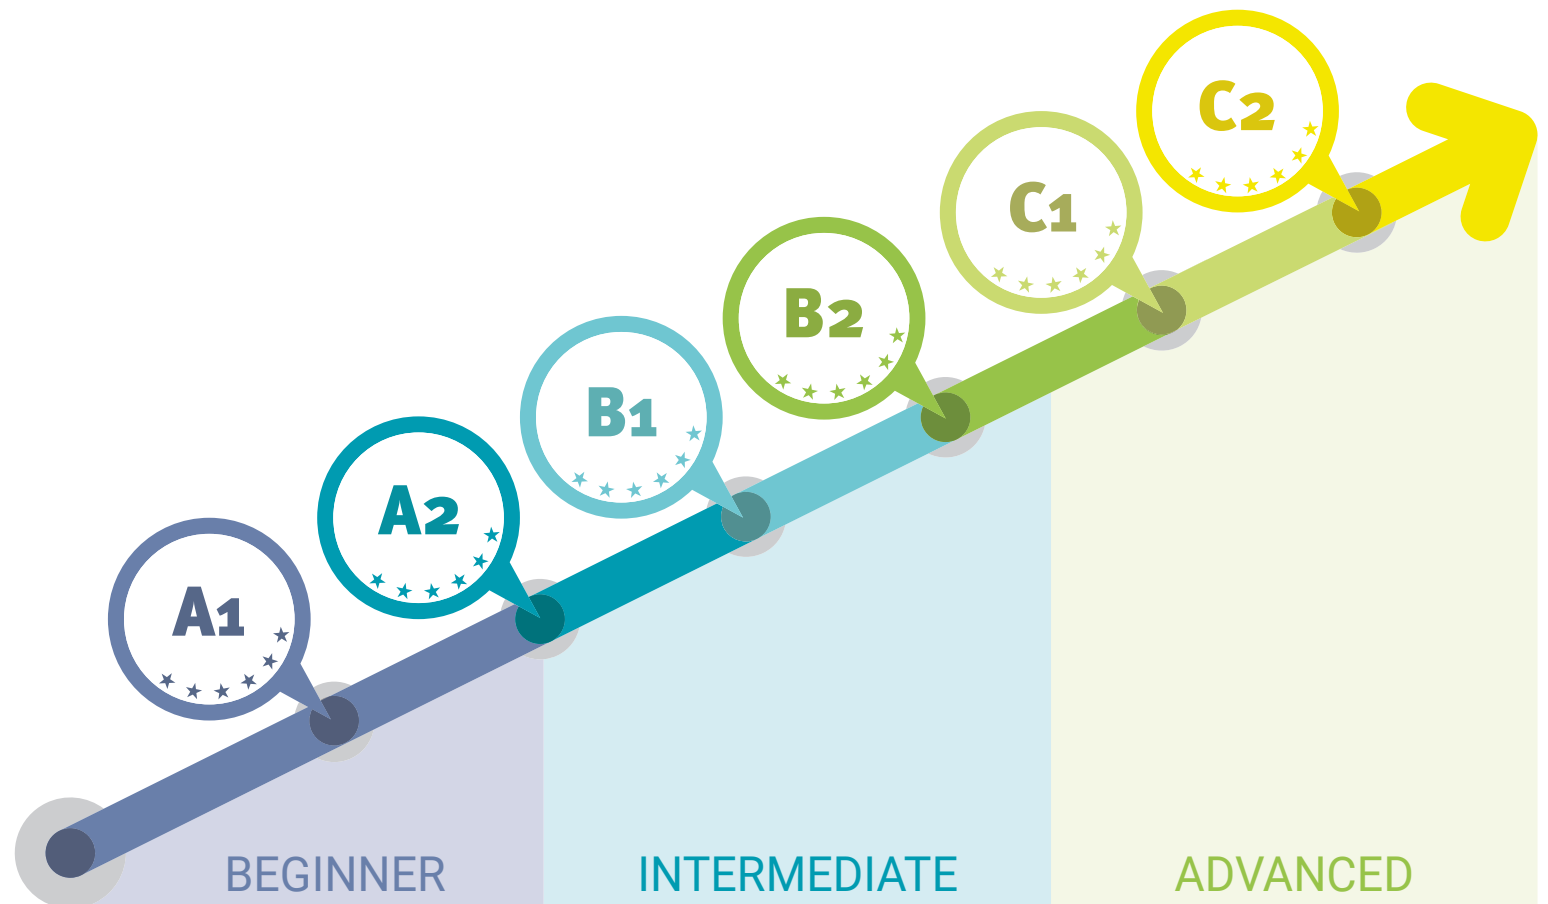

On the other hand, language skills diminish over time if they are not used or maintained. Precisely for this reason, it is well known that companies or institutions may decide not to accept certificates that are more than two years old (even if they are official). In fact, test results such as IELTS are only valid for two years. Therefore, it is important to attach an updated level report, issued by a prestigious institution, such as TECH, to any certificate.

In addition, it is important for students to know their personal level, so that they can set learning objectives, and adequately prepare themselves to achieve the best results in the exam they decide to take.

TECH's extensive portfolio of language qualifications includes both individual and group courses and classes to prepare you to take the CEFR level exam"

03

What are the CEFR levels?

The Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR) is part of the Council of Europe's language policy project, providing a common basis for the development of language programs, syllabus guidelines, exams and manuals for learning foreign languages. It also favors international cooperation in the field of modern languages and the mutual recognition of qualifications obtained in different learning contexts.

The CEFR defines the following levels of proficiency:

- ◆ A1: Beginner level
- ◆ A2: Elementary level
- ◆ B1: Intermediate level
- ◆ B2: Upper intermediate level
- ◆ C1: Advanced level
- ◆ C2: Very advanced level

At TECH, we specialize in language learning and we are 100% based on the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages as the international standard for measuring language skills based on the 6 levels of oral and written comprehension and expression of a language"

A1

Breakthrough, which corresponds to what Wilkins called in his 1978 proposal "Formulaic Proficiency", and Trim, in the same publication, "Introductory"

A2

(Waystage), which reflects the Council of Europe's content specification

B1

Threshold which reflects the Council of Europe's content specification

B2

(Vantage), which reflects the Council of Europe's third content specification, a level that Wilkins has described as "Limited Operational Proficiency" and Trim as "adequate response to situations normally encountered"

C1

(Effective Operational Proficiency), which Trim called "effective proficiency" and Wilkins called "adequate operational proficiency", and which represents an advanced level of competence appropriate for more complex work and study tasks

C2

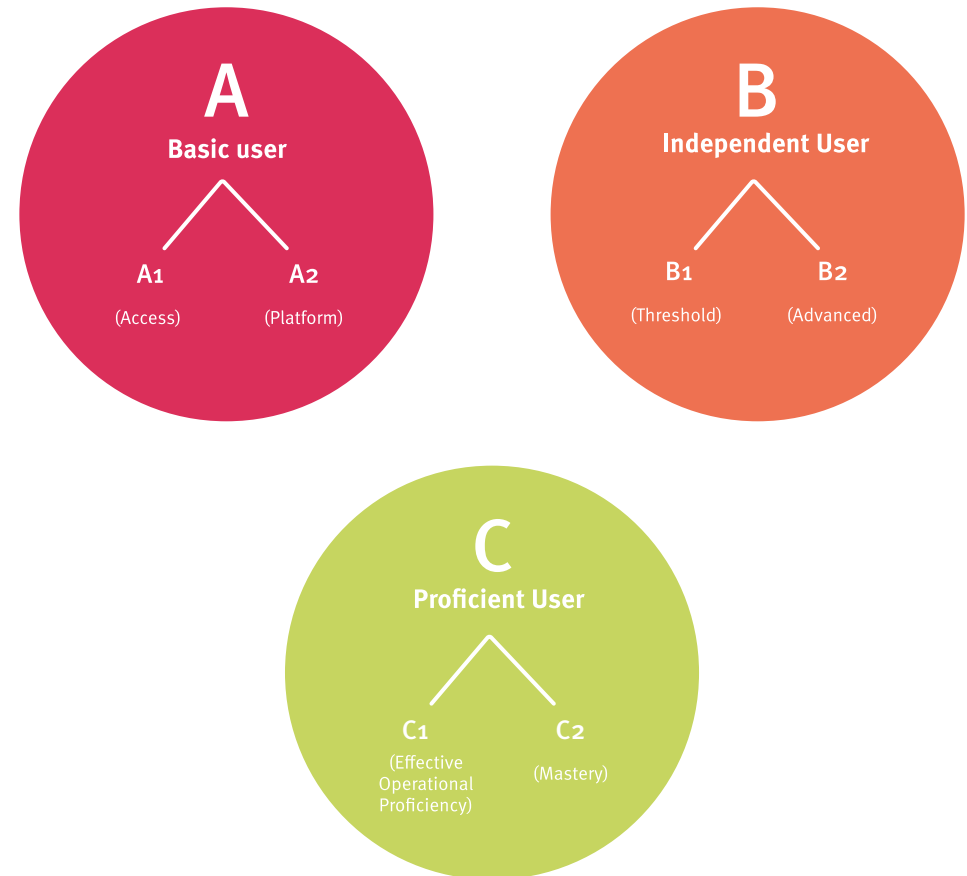

Mastery, (Trim: "Comprehensive mastery"; Wilkins: "Comprehensive Operational Proficiency"), which corresponds to the top examination objective in the scheme adopted by ALTE (Association of Language Testers in Europe)

With this placement test, students will know exactly what level they are at according to the CEFR and will also receive detailed information on the specific skills they need to work on in order to continue progressing to the next level.

TECH also helps students pass the exam through intensive preparation courses at all levels.

Self-assessment table of common benchmark levels

Comprehension		A1	A2
Listening	I recognize very basic, commonly-used words and expressions relating to myself, my family and my immediate environment when spoken slowly and clearly.	I can understand sentences and the most common vocabulary on topics of personal interest (very basic personal and family information, shopping, place of residence, employment). I can grasp the main idea of short, clear and simple messages and announcements.
Reading	I understand familiar words and names and very simple sentences, for example, those on signs, posters and catalogs.	I am able to read very short and simple texts. I can find specific, predictable information in simple, everyday writing such as advertisements, prospectuses, menus and schedules, and I can understand short, simple personal letters.
Speaking
Oral Interaction	I can participate in a conversation in a simple way, as long as the other person is willing to repeat what they have said or say it in other words and at a slower speed, and help me formulate what I am trying to say. I ask and answer simple questions on topics of immediate need or very common issues.	I can communicate in simple and routine tasks requiring a simple and direct exchange of information about daily activities and matters. I am capable of very brief social exchanges, although I usually cannot understand enough to keep the conversation going on my own.
Oral Expression	I use simple expressions and phrases to describe the place where I live and the people I meet.	I use a series of expressions and phrases to describe in simple terms my family and other people, my living conditions, my educational background and my current or last job.
Writing
Written Expression	I am able to write short and simple postcards, for example, to send greetings. I know how to fill in forms with personal data, for example my name, my nationality and my address in a hotel registration form.	I am able to write short and simple notes and messages related to my immediate needs. I can write very simple personal letters, for example, thanking someone for something.

06

The Professional Benefits of Knowing Your Level of Spanish

The first step before preparing for a language placement test is to know, as precisely as possible, what your pre-existing level is.

Some online programs can give an initial approximation, but only the TECH level test will allow the student to know exactly what skills they should be working on improving. In addition, the student will also know the average time they should spend, and what resources and tools they need to do so.

TECH knows that it is essential to carry out an initial assessment in order to know the starting point of your language level. Thanks to this test you will know in a complete and detailed way your level of Spanish"

07

Structure and Content of the Test

The structure, contents and duration of the placement test are described below:

The test lasts 100 minutes and is divided into 4 parts:

- Listening: 20-30 minutes
- Speaking: 10-15 minutes
- Reading: 20-30 minutes
- Writing: 20-30 minutes

At TECH, you will find the most effective way to improve your communication skills”

The following is a description of the TECH placement test model specifications:

Skills Assessed

The exam consists of four parts designed to assess the candidates' linguistic and strategic abilities in the following skills:

- ♦ Reading
- ♦ Listening
- ♦ Writing This skill is assessed by two examiners
- ♦ Speaking The evaluation will take into account both the spoken presentation and the interaction between the candidates. This skill is assessed in person by two examiners

Subjects

The subject areas and subcategories used in the placement test are heterogeneous and based on what is described in the CEFR. The following is a list of some of the subject areas and subcategories used so far which is based on Chapter 7 ("Specific Notions") of the same bibliography used in the writing of the CEFR:

- ♦ Leisure and recreation (free time, hobbies and interests, radio, TV, movies, sports)
- ♦ Travel (public transportat, private transport, vacations, lodging, luggage, travel documents)
- ♦ Relations with others (invitations, correspondence, government and politics, social affairs)
- ♦ Health and physical awareness (body parts, personal comfort, hygiene, medical services)
- ♦ Education (school, subjects, grades)
- ♦ Shopping (facilities, food, clothing, fashion, basic necessities, prices)
- ♦ Food and drink (types of food and beverages, eating and drinking away from home)
- ♦ Services (e-mail, telephone, banks, police, hospitals)
- ♦ Places (ask for and give directions to locations)
- ♦ Language (skills, comprehension and expression)
- ♦ Weather (understanding weather forecasts and exchanging information on weather forecasts, climate)

Features of the Texts Used in the Test

The texts are completely authentic. In other words, they are samples of the real language that have not been produced especially for language teaching and may be subject to minimal ad hoc adaptations. Materials are gathered from sources as diverse as the Internet, magazines, newspapers, guidebooks, novels, advertisements, letters, e-mails, etc., which are adapted to the contextual domains of use described by the CEFR.

Assessment Criteria

The scores for each skill are expressed in percentages which are reflected in the certificate issued to those who pass the test. The requirement for a candidate to be considered eligible for accreditation is to have obtained 50% or more in each of the four skills (reading, speaking, writing and listening), in addition to obtaining an average of at least 60% in the exam as a whole. The different scoring criteria for each of the skills are detailed below:

Listening and Reading Comprehension: Each correct item (minimum of 25 and maximum of 30) equals one point. A candidate's total number of correct items in this skill is weighted to obtain the corresponding score in percentages.

Writing: When marking the two exercises to be carried out by the candidates, the following aspects are taken into account: relevance to the topic, cohesion and coherence, lexis and grammar.

Each aspect is evaluated with a score ranging from 0 to 5 points (maximum total of 20 points). Subsequently, the sum of these grades is weighted to obtain the percentage corresponding to each of the two tests. .

Speaking: Once the interview has been completed, the examiners (interviewer and observer) give the test as a whole a score between 0 and 5 points for each of the four aspects evaluated: grammar and vocabulary, speech management, pronunciation and interactive communication.

Each aspect is weighted equally in the assessment of the skills. The total sum is divided by two and weighted, as is the case when marking the writing test. All sessions are recorded.

Types of Tasks

The tasks proposed in this test are designed to assess whether candidates are able to:

- ♦ Understand the main points of clear, standard-language texts dealing with common matters, whether in work, study or leisure situations (reading information brochures, reading billboards, reading text messages, understanding radio or television news)
- ♦ Perform in most situations that may arise during a trip in places where the language is used (identifying timetables and directions through reading or oral interaction, asking for directions, etc.)
- ♦ Produce simple and coherent texts on topics that are familiar to them or in which they have a personal interest
- ♦ Describe experiences, events, desires and aspirations, as well as briefly justify their opinions or explain their plans

In just over 3 hours, you will take a test that will allow you to precisely assess your level of Spanish in 4 different areas"

Description of the Exercises

The details of the exercises for each of the skills are given below:

Reading: It consists of two exercises, each of which is based on reading a text. In turn, these two exercises may be subdivided into up to three different sections according to the type of questions/items contained in them.

So, the first of the two exercises of an exam could include a true or false questions section, a second short answer section, and a third section of multiple choice questions, to mention just one of the different possible configurations.

Listening: It consists of two exercises, each of which is based on listening to a passage that can be repeated up to two times.

Writing: It consists of two writing/composition exercises. The candidate must complete both of them.

Speaking: It consists of four exercises:

- ♦ The first is a conversation about personal information that each of the candidates holds individually with one of the two examiners present at the test
- ♦ The second is an interaction exercise between the two candidates being examined (in order to assess the candidate's ability to interact, they are examined in pairs)
- ♦ In the third exercise, the candidate must sustain a monologue
- ♦ The fourth exercise is a conversation between the two candidates and one of the two examiners present at the test

Number of words

Reading: Minimum of 900 words in total between the texts of the two exercises.

Listening comprehension: Not applicable. An audio text lasting a maximum of five minutes is used for each of the two exercises.

Writing: Candidates will have to produce two texts, one containing between 120 and 150 words and the other between 150 and 180.

Speaking: The instructions provided by the examiner to the candidates at the beginning of each of the four exercises state that no more than 50 words are to be used. In this case, the duration of each of the four exercises is also relevant: personal conversation between 2 and 3 minutes; interaction between candidates between 2 and 3 minutes; sustained monologue of 3 minutes (one and a half minutes per candidate) and between examiner and candidates 3-minute conversation.

Test duration

The maximum total duration of the test, including the four skills evaluated, will be 100 minutes, distributed in different periods for each part of the test (written comprehension, oral comprehension, written production and oral production).

Reading: between 20 and 30 minutes.

Listening: between 20 and 30 minutes.

Writing: between 20 and 30 minutes.

Speaking: Between 10 and 15 minutes.

Basic Instructions

At the beginning of the assessment for each of the four skills, written instructions are given on the specific examination procedure for each skill.

Materials Used and Test Format

The four tests that make up the exam are designed with a common format that TECH uses expressly for this exam, with the objective of making it easier to read the content and provide answers.

The exam contains separate "question" sheets for each test or skill (with instructions, text, graphics and questions) and a separate answer sheet for each skill, on which candidates must write their answers.

Assessment and Report

One of the most attractive aspects of taking TECH Global University placement test is the comprehensive report that the student receives after completing the test.

In terms of their CV, presenting this report together with their language certificates, if they have them, is a guarantee of transparency and professional honesty, two basic values in the workplace, which are implicitly transmitted when a candidate for any job position has carried out this "language proficiency report" exercise.

In less than 72 hours, you will receive a comprehensive report with the score obtained in each test and the corresponding level according to the CEFR"

Within 48-72 hours of taking the test, you will receive a report with your score broken down as follows:
